Retirement Rehab

Retiring abroad has always been a draw for certain people. Spend your Golden Years relaxing on the beach and drinking margaritas. Encourage your kids and grandkids to come visit when they're on vacation. It paints a nice picture. But living abroad is starting to take on another new appeal for people approaching retirement. If you're worried your nest egg won't be up to snuff, then check out these posts from our blog about the benefits of living abroad during retirement.
